

Dear students,

please note that the exam for “New Directions in Emotion, Cognition and Research Methods in Psychology” is divided in two parts: a written assignment and an oral exam.

Both parts are mandatory.

1. Written assignment: students need to send me (v.fantasia@lumsa.it) a PDF document containing the assignment, 10 days prior to the oral exam date you are booked for.
2. Oral exam: it consists of three questions on the entire course materials available online (included the course slides)

All the materials related to the exam (including more detailed instructions for the assignment) are available on my private webpage area. Students who wish to do the exam have to send me an email to get restricted access to it, specifying the exam session they intend to participate in.

Best regards,

VF