To whom it may concern,

as a professor of Sociology at Department of Law of Lumsa University, I am delighted to recommend an excellent former Phd student, Miss Lorena Menditto and to write this reference.

I had the pleasure of teaching Miss Menditto during 2015 when she attended the Phd course. She is a focused and self-motivated Phd student and she was an asset to the course, where she stood out for her enthusiasm and ability to grasp new ideas.

She played empirical and advanced statistical activities regarding specific disorder of neurodevelopment. She has participated in international conferences where she presented some works on the still face and event related potential cerbrale operation in mathematics.

In recent months, she has also worked with me in a research project concerning the social professions.

Miss Menditto possesses the traits of persistence, curiosity and motivation, thus she is very adept at any form of research required as part of her research career.

On a personal level, Miss Menditto is a delightful young woman. She always arrived with a smile and she has a very generous, giving personality.

It is for these reasons that I offer high recommendations for Miss Menditto without reservation. Her drive and abilities will truly be an asset to your Faculty.

If you have any questions regarding this recommendation, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yoursfaithfully,
